On How I Design Clarity in Complex Environments

telehealth — erp system — public transportation

TELEHEALTH PLATFORM. CONTEXT

Senior Product Designer

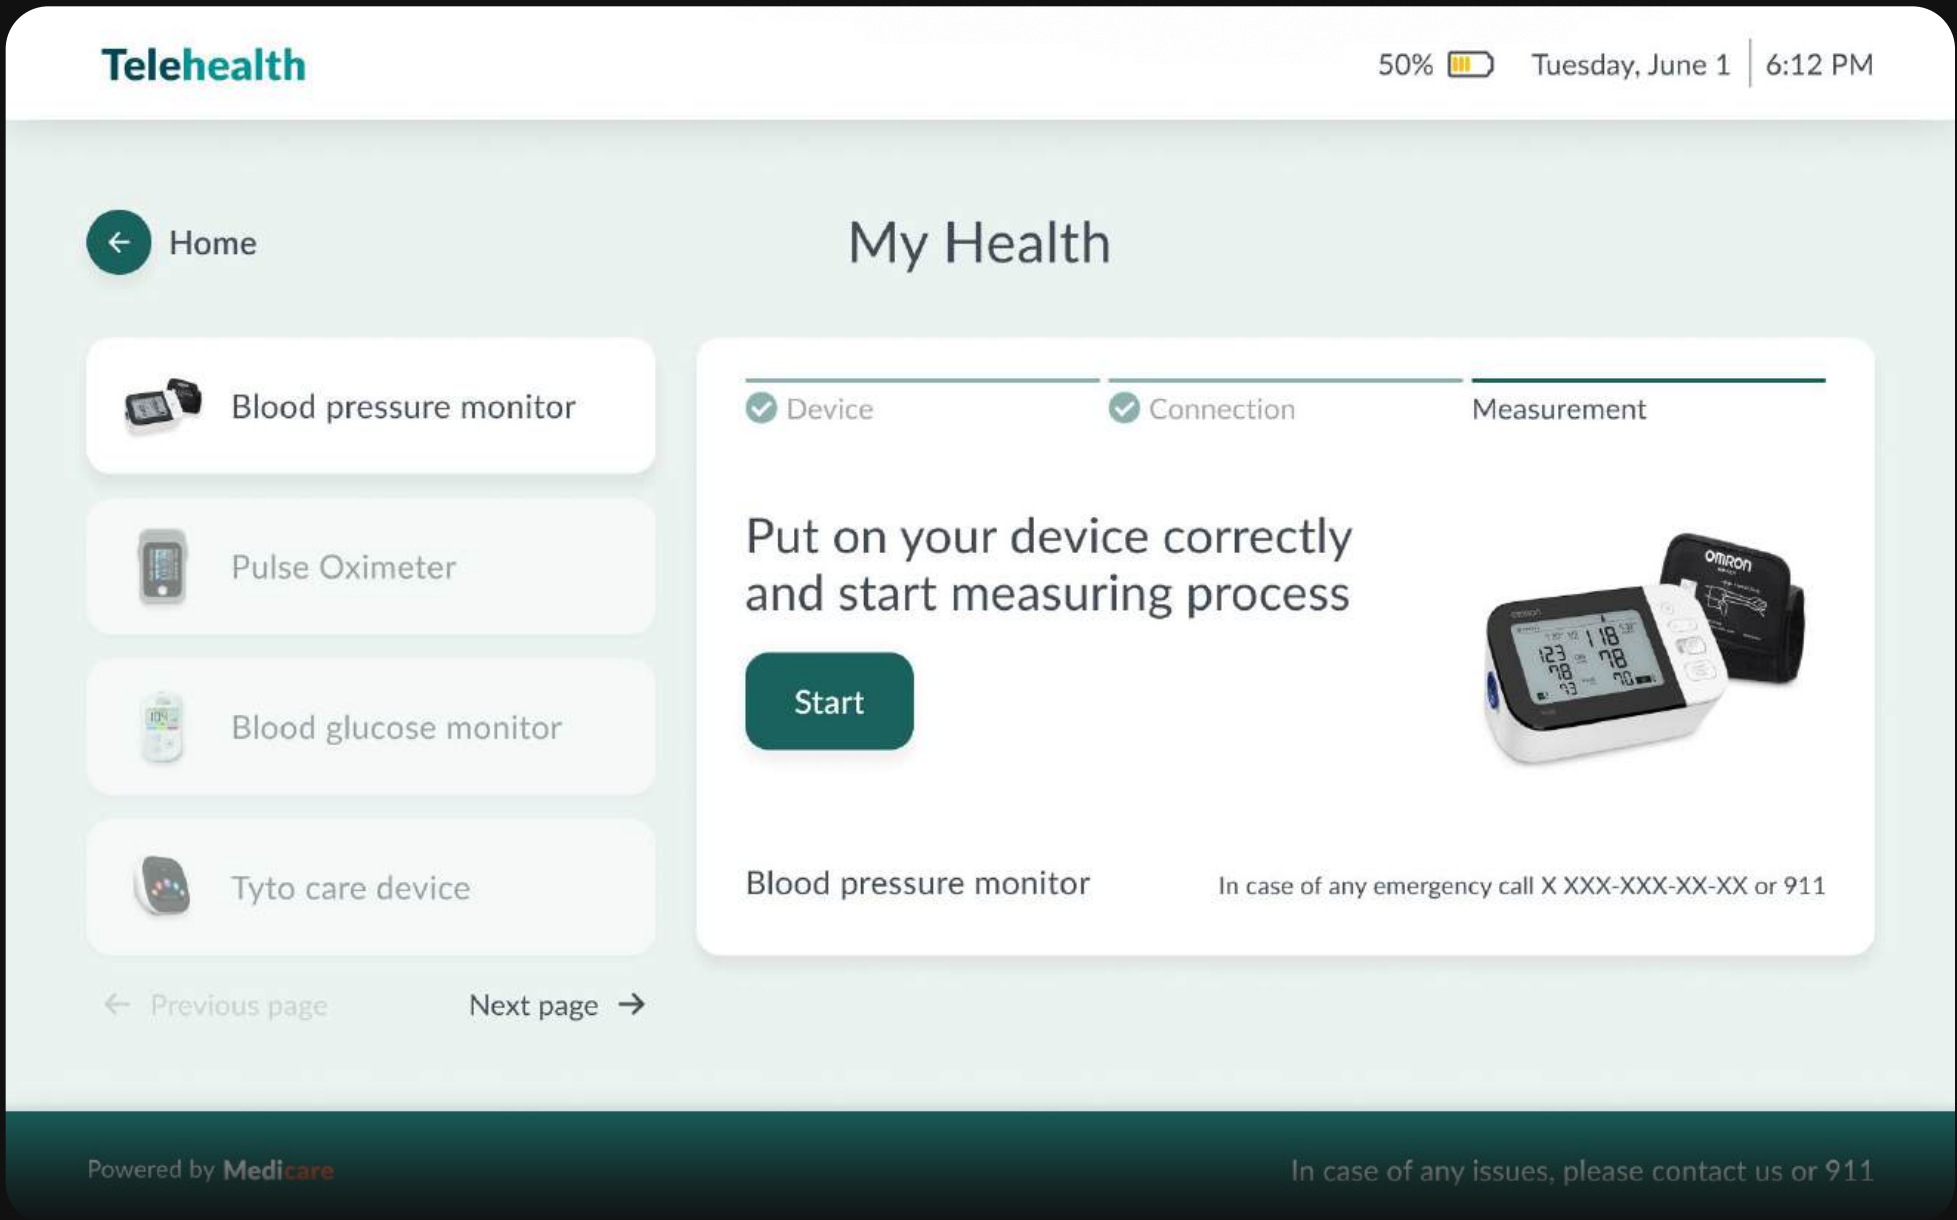

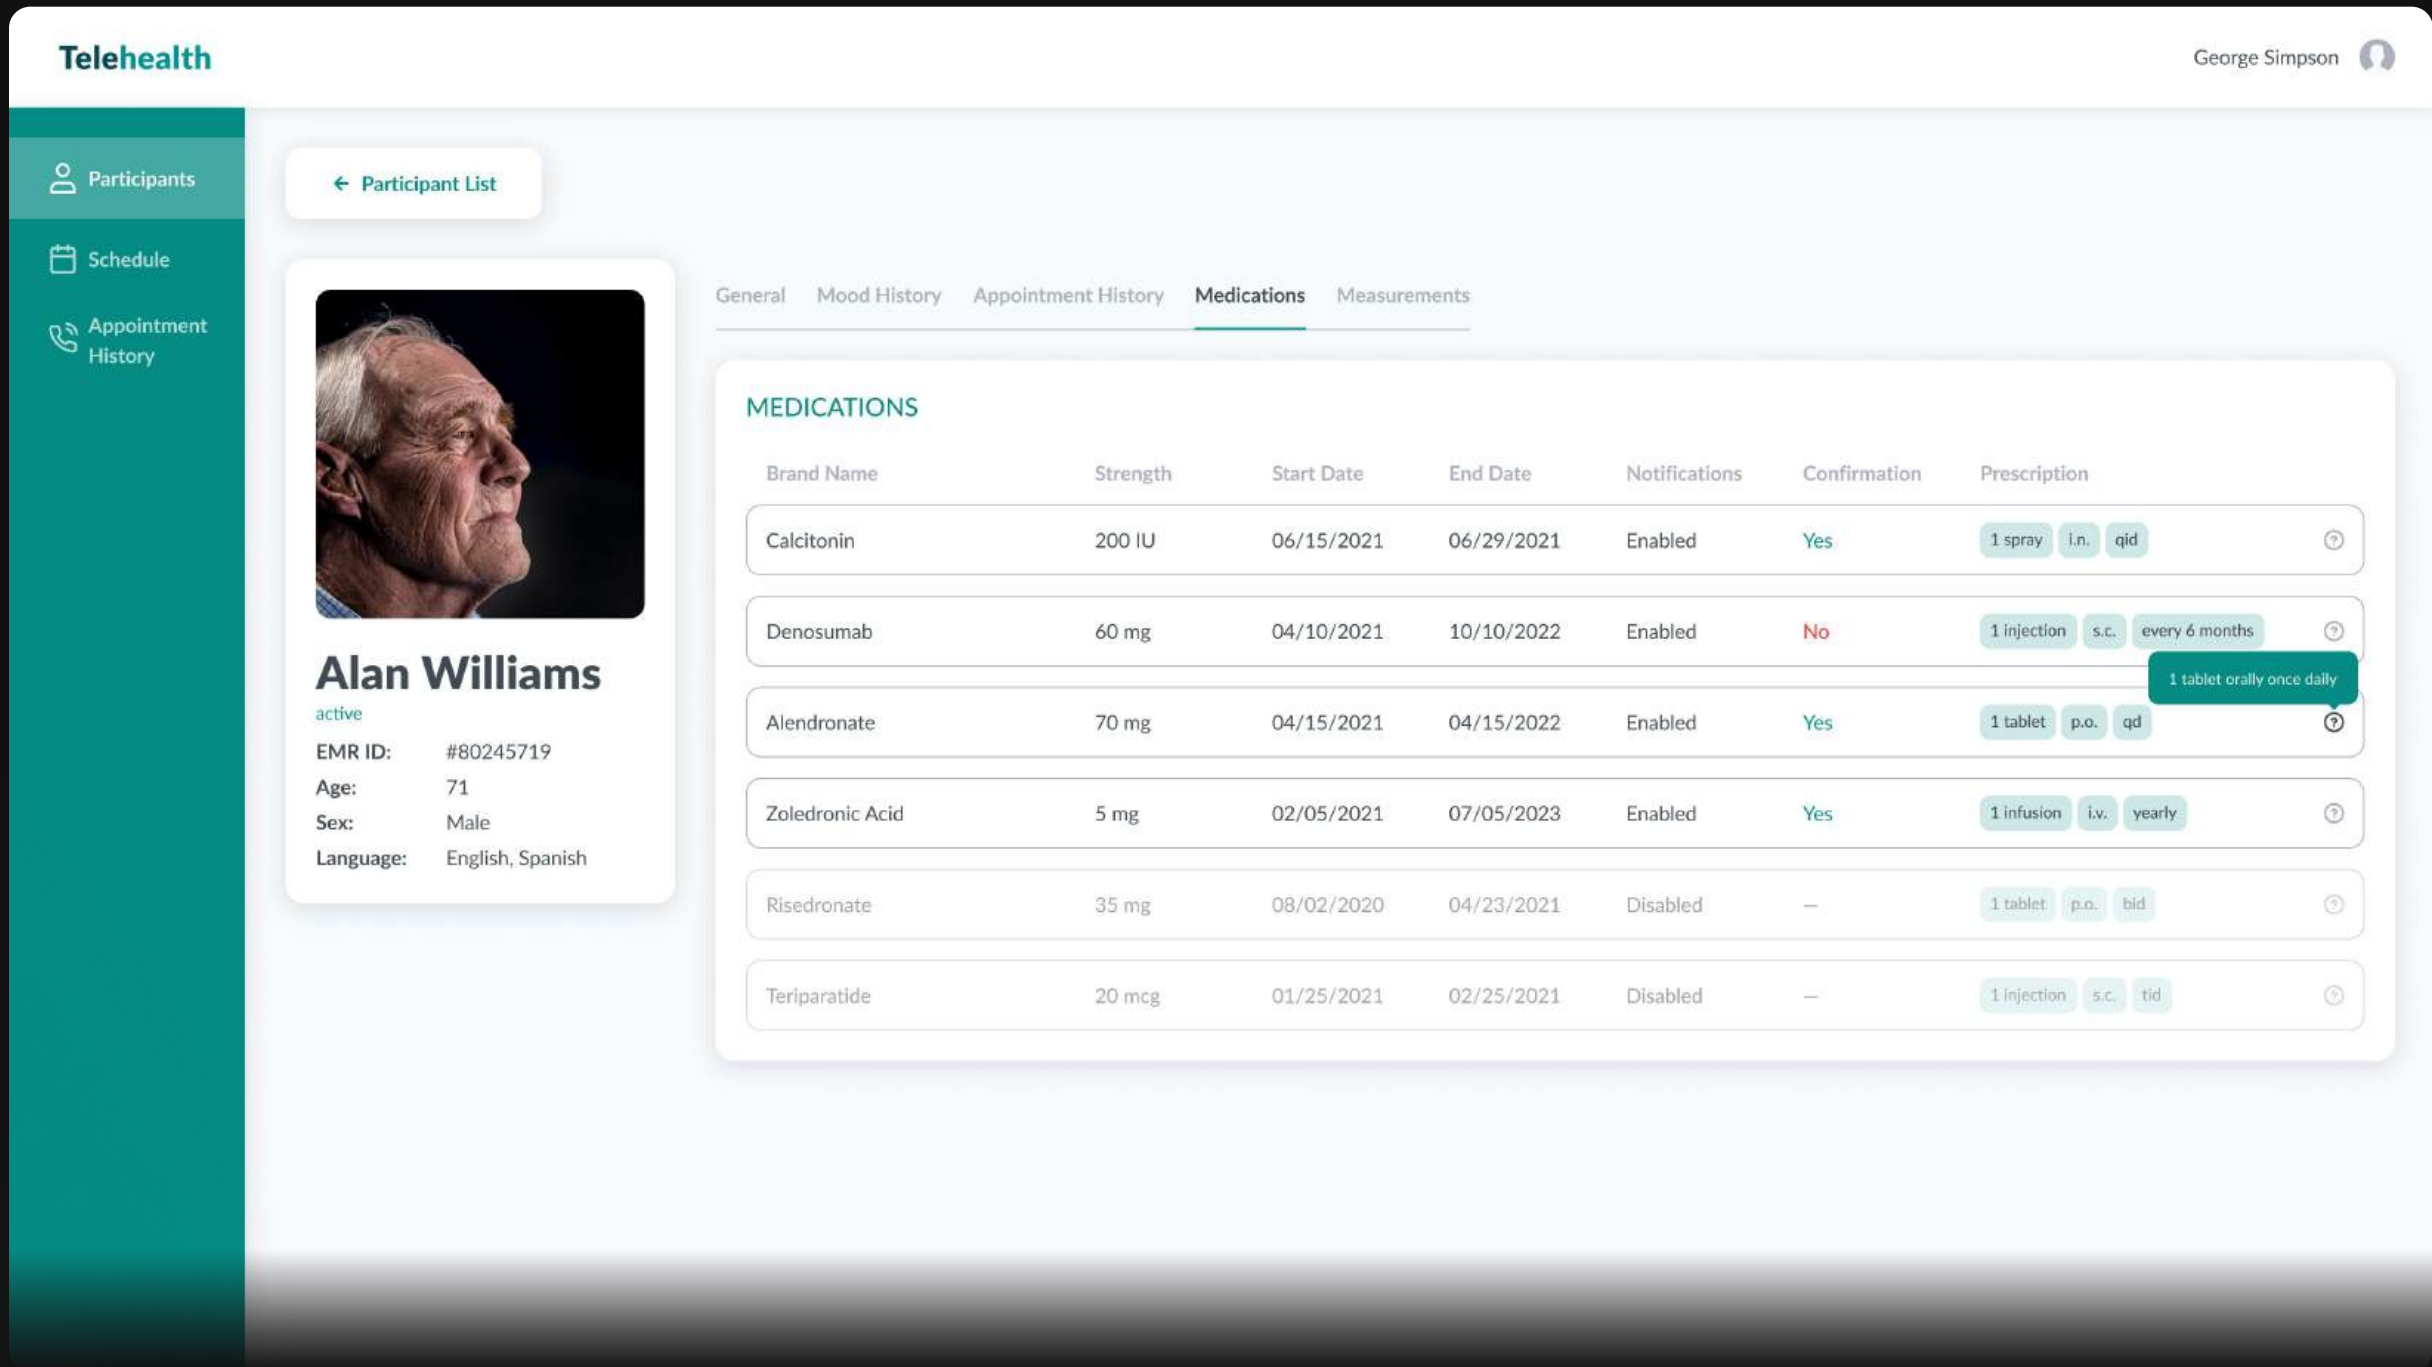

Task: Create an MVP of accessible telehealth platform connecting doctors & patients.

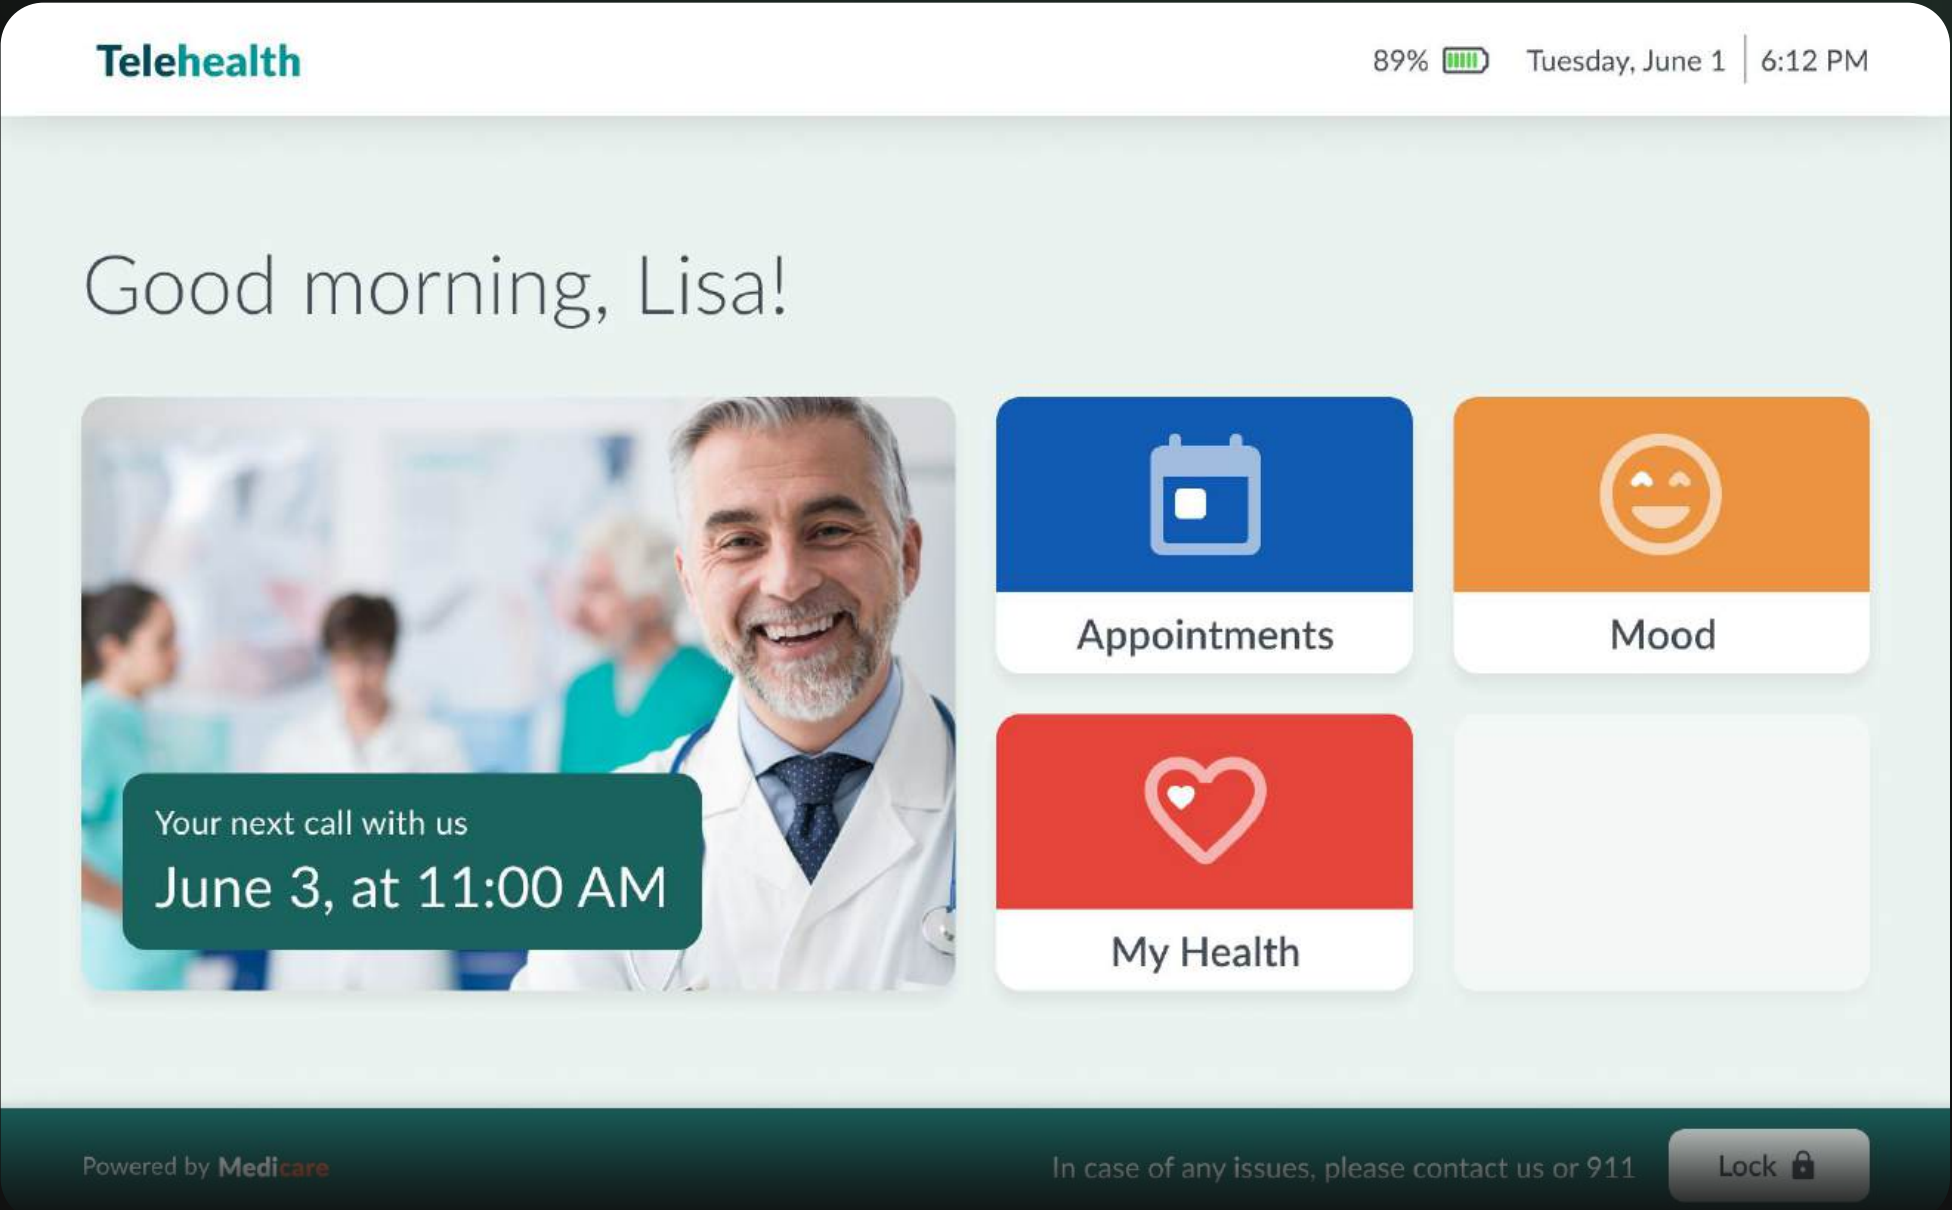

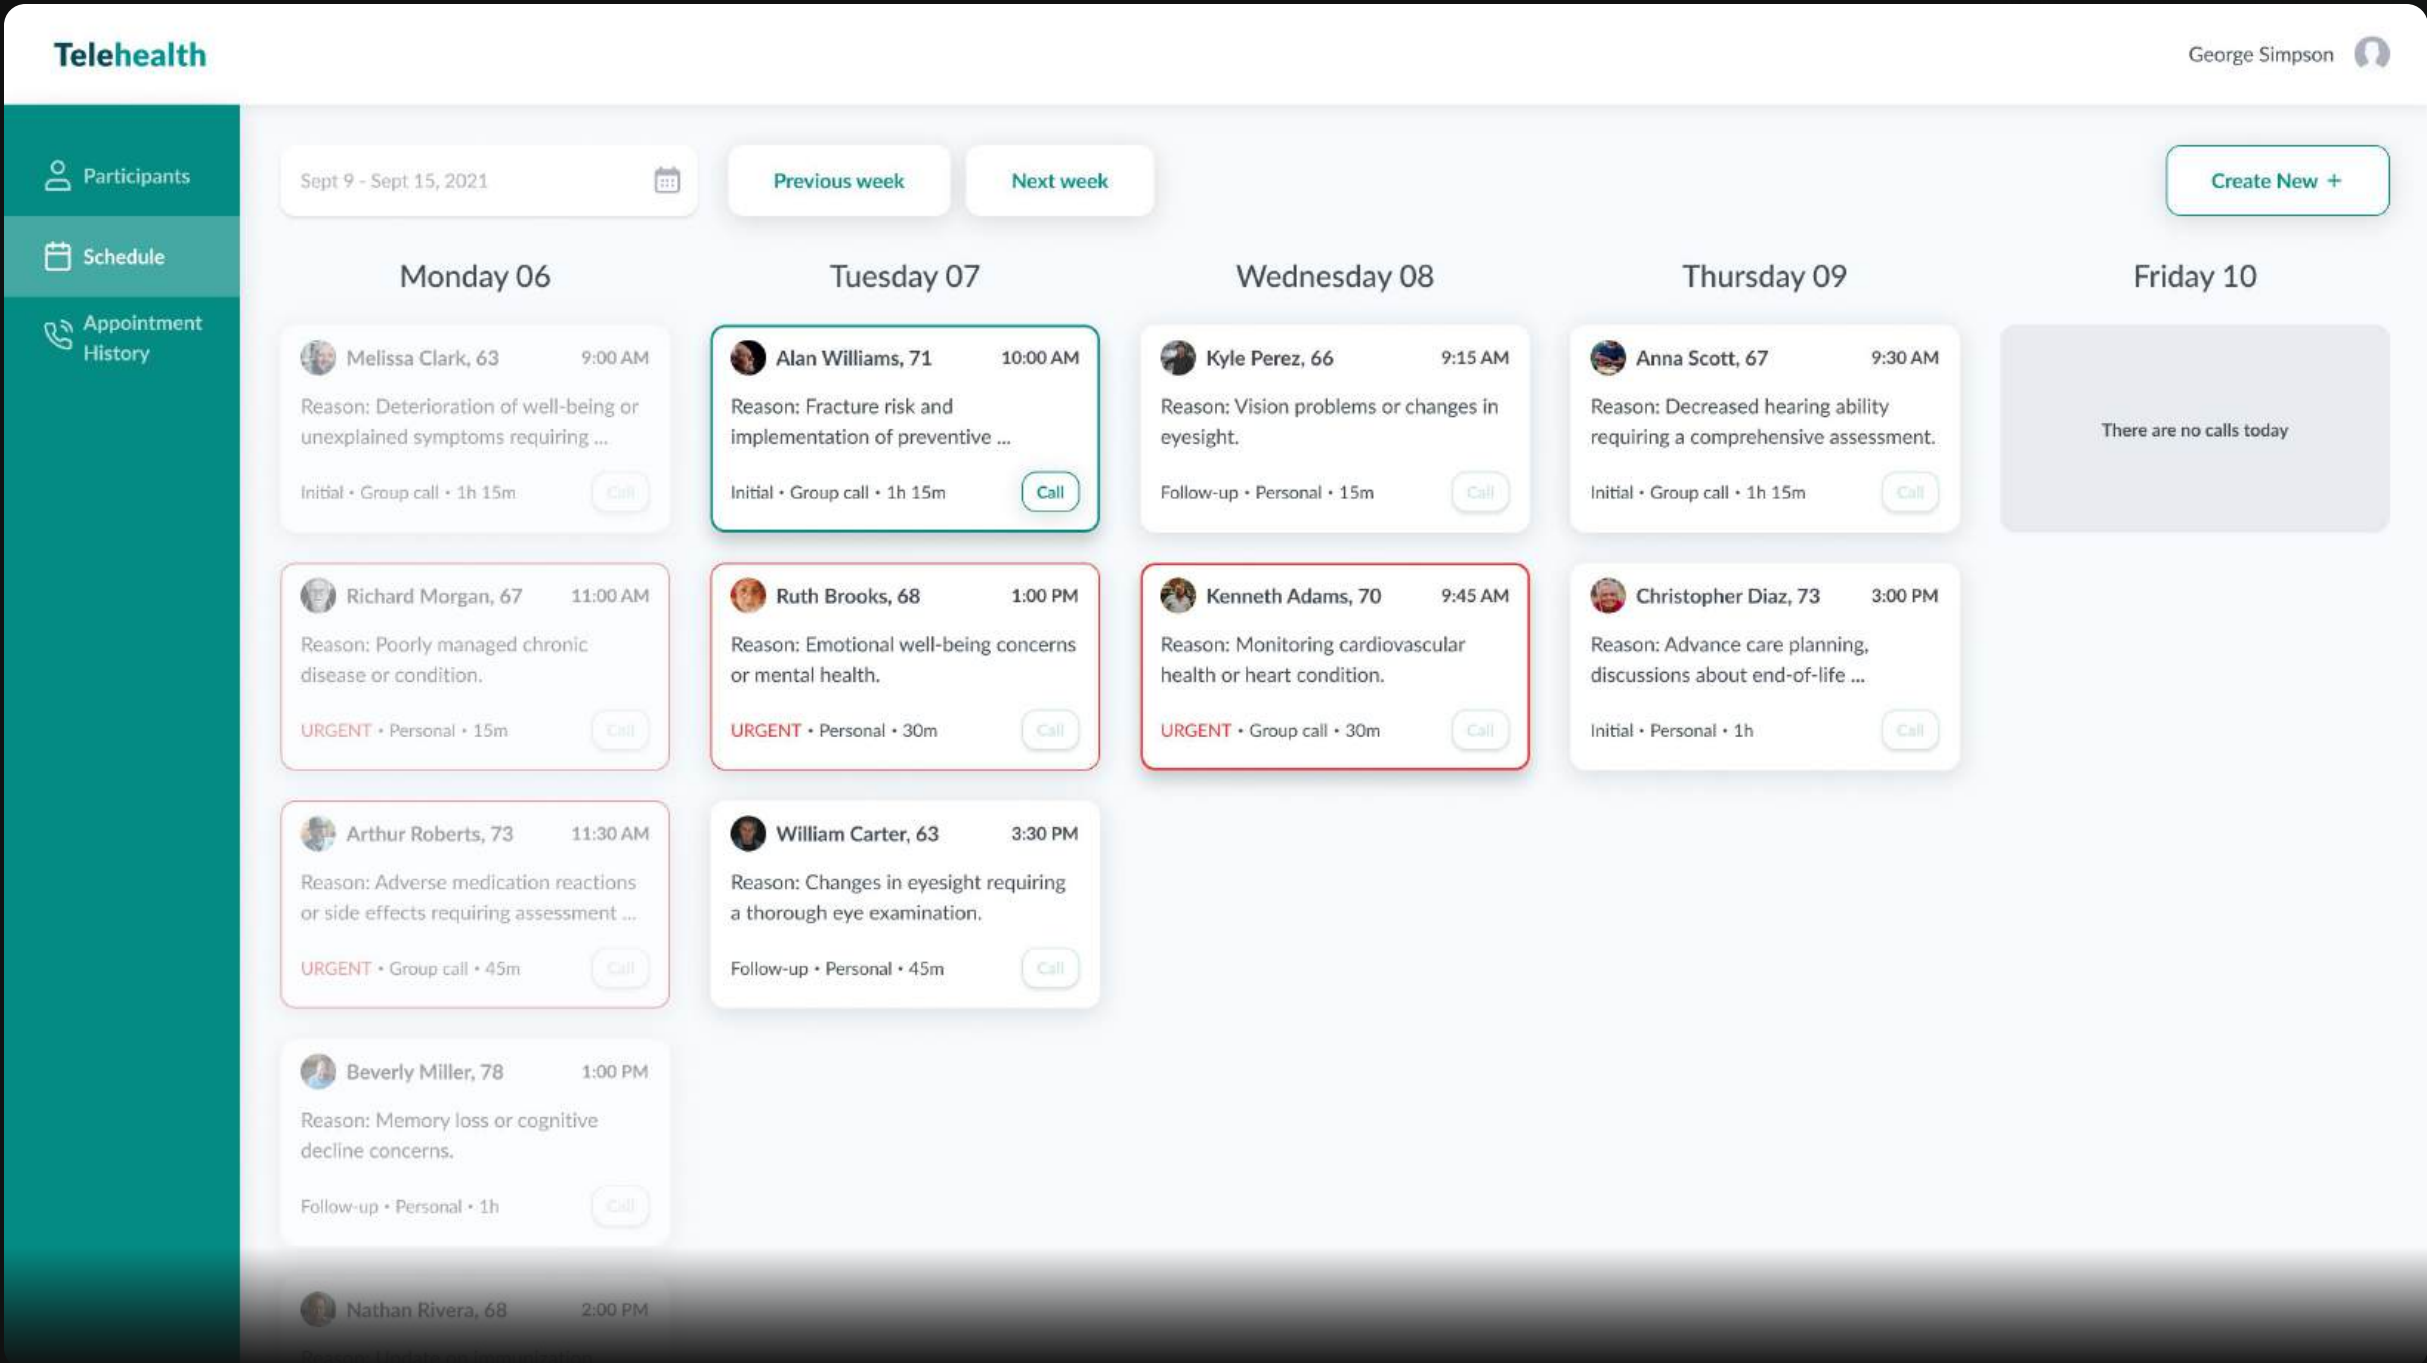

Team	- Project Manager - Business Analyst 2 Designers 5 Developers 2 QAs,	Project stake	- Taiga UI for Web - Material Design for Tablet - WCAG 2.1 AA compliance - Figma components and styles - Scrum	Stakeholders	- Medical directors of investor company - Client's company management
------	--	---------------	--	--------------	---

TELEHEALTH PLATFORM. CHALLENGES

- Highly regulated healthcare environment (HIPAA, WCAG, etc.)
- White-label requirement (aka Aesthetic vs. Accessibility Standards)
- Digitalisation of Medical Work Flow

TELEHEALTH PLATFORM

APPROACH

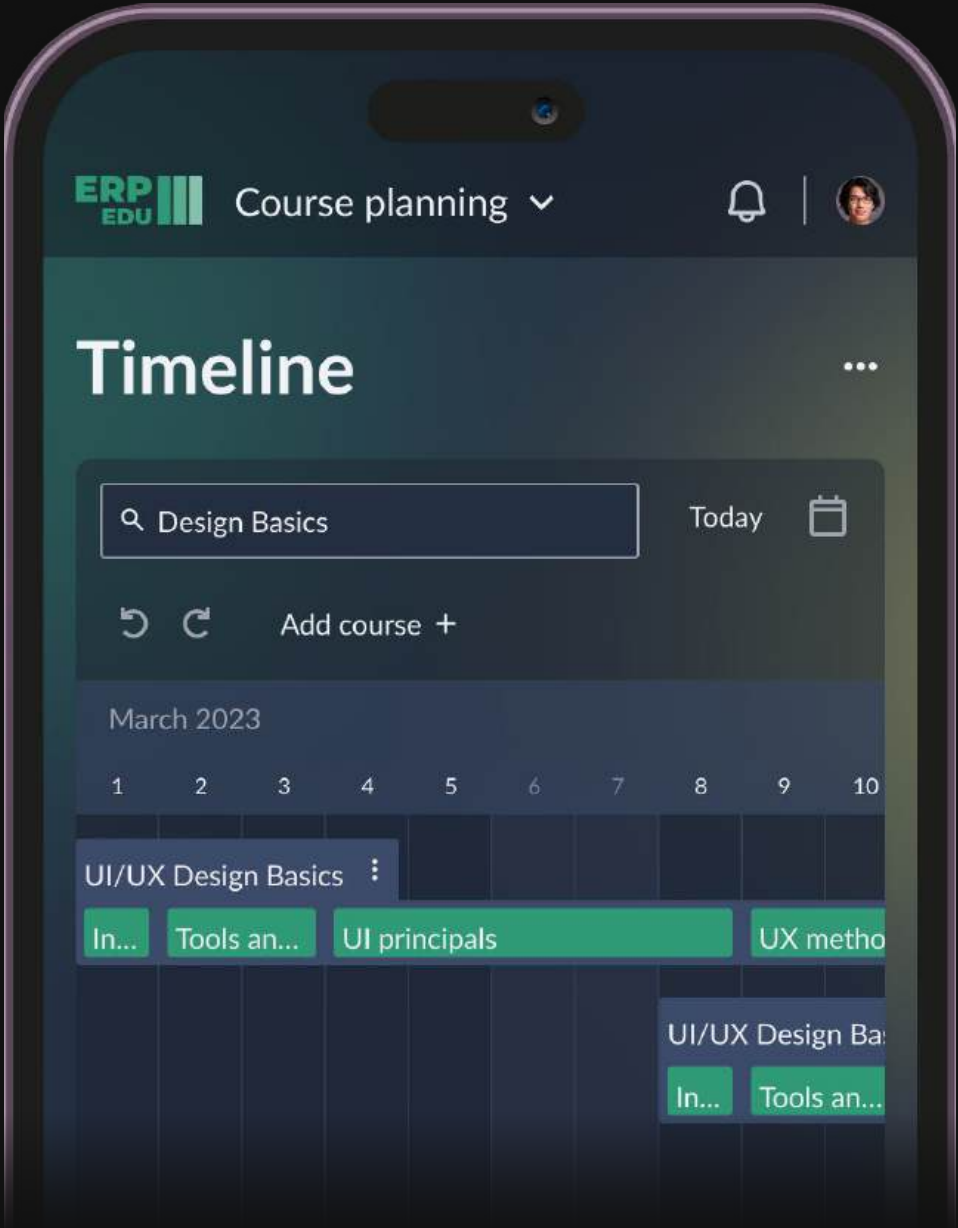

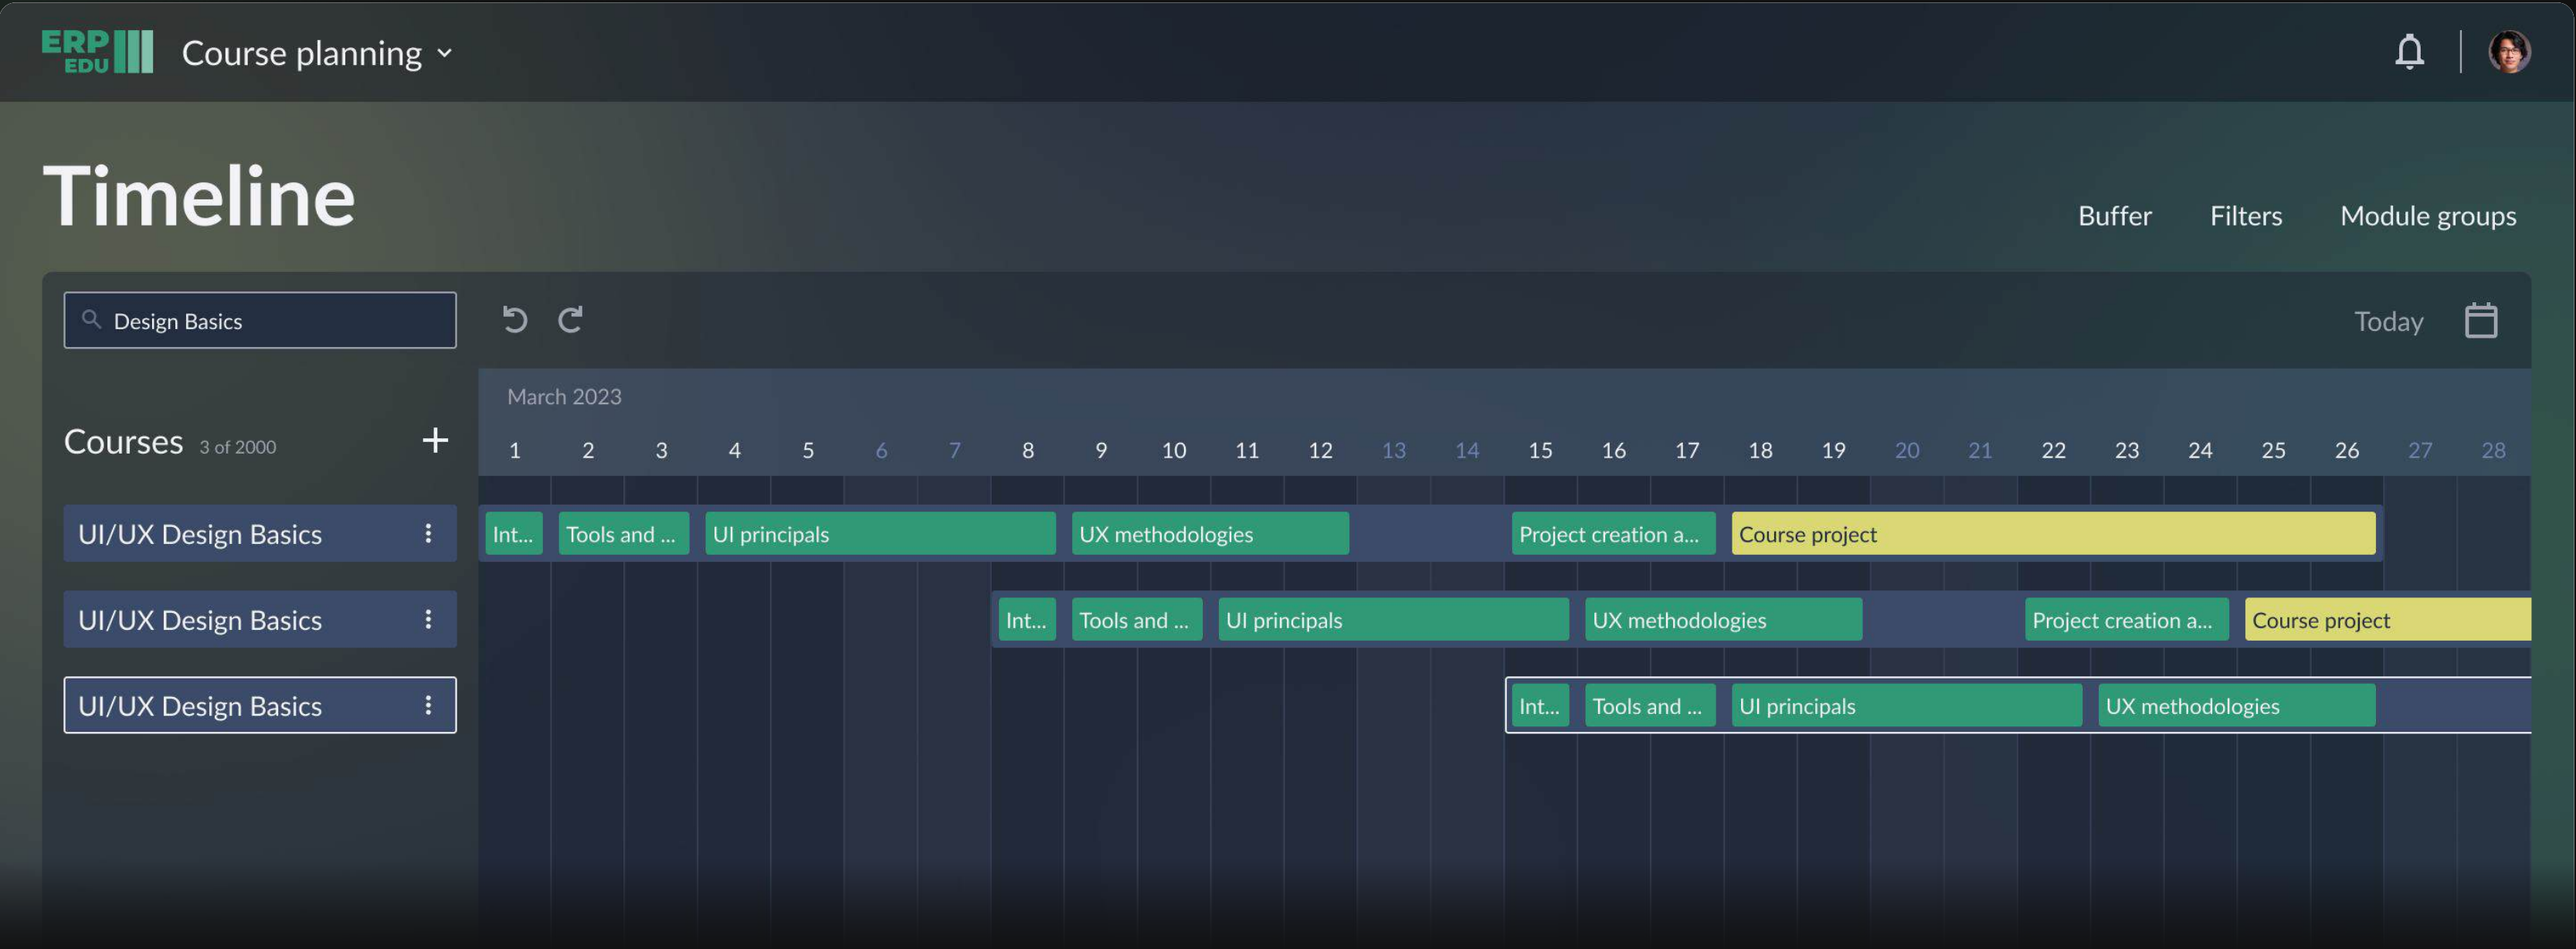

- Conducted 20+ interviews with doctors and patients
- Created accessibility framework
- Iterative prototyping and validation via remote tests

RESULTS

- Passed A11Y audit on first run
- Launched MVP in 3 months with reusable foundation
- Launched second version in 5 months

ERP SYSTEM. CONTEXT

Senior UI/UX Designer

Task: Design an ERP tool to digitalise processes for managing educational resources.

Team	• Product Owner • Scrum Master • Designer • 4 Developers • QA	Project stake	• Material UI • WCAG 2.1 AA (partly) • Figma components, styles and variables • Storybook + Confluence for Docs • Scrum	Stakeholders	• Chief Digitalisation Officer • Chief Operation Officer • Head of Sales Department • Planning Managers • Officials from BAMF
------	---	---------------	---	--------------	---

ERP SYSTEM. CHALLENGES

- Bureaucratic decision-making chain
- Massive dataset and complicated processes in EXEL
- Need to unify 5 separate tools into one modular interface

- Designed, tested and launched 5+ new key features

THE COMMON THREAD

Each project started in uncertainty. I entered not as an expert, but as a learner obsessed with mastering the unknown and designing the best possible solution.

My superpower are curiosity and collaboration, I always stay close to developers and users. I built bridges between order and creativity, innovation and usability, product and people.

I couldn't believe you dove so deep so fast. Within just one month you were already answering our questions as if you'd been part of the team for years.

— Karl Kaminsky, iOS developer at hvv switch
